Industrial Fund Opens Employee Drive

Three Plants Ready

The $1,250,000 campaign to assure more industry, business and jobs in Bucks County got underway on the personal level today, with the start of solicitation among the employees of three Lower Bucks plants.

Literature and pledge forms for the newly-chartered Bucks County Industrial Development Corporation have been delivered to the plants of Kemline, Inc., Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. and National Container Corp., all of Bristol Township.

Other plant campaigns will be announced shortly. Encouraging results have already been reported in other phases of the drive.

The actual contacts will be jointly handled in each plant, under the cooperation of top leaders of management and labor unions.

Three-Fold Program

The million-and-a-quarter goal was set by the business, labor and civic leaders who direct the development group, as the minimum needed to finance the three-fold program.

The money will go directly into the corporation treasury, with no pay or reimbursement to officers.

Humidity.

It's worse than having the sun beating down. Then at least it's an excuse for swimming. This way you expect the rain any second.

The signs of the Alaska statehood bill and it won't be long now. The Alaskans have to approve it—and there is no doubt about that. So it will be 49 and the songs and flags will have to be changed.

It will be tougher to make Hawaii number 50. It's an awfully long way off. But the island is a beautiful place. As for beaches — Atlantic City wins. Waikiki has too much sharp coral to be comfortable.

Yesterday's news on the Goldfine case is right out of a spy picture. Hidden microphones and ransacked rooms make it seem the age of intrigue is here.

Let's cut out the shenanigans and get down to business. After Fox's hearsay unsupported evidence the House probers might find themselves and the system on trial rather than Goldfine and Adams.

Still too many American G.I.'s being held prisoner in Cuba and Germany.

It's about time we showed these gangsters that kidnapping doesn't pay off. Castro might find that he has done his cause more harm than good.

All-Star game today. This is being written before it comes off but we can give you the winner. It's bound to be the National League leading by a 5-2 score at the end.

The Nationals must be strong when they can put a .358 Willy Mays as lead off batter.

Let's hope meanwhile that the rest doesn't cool off the Phils. They were going great before the mid-summer hiatus.

Be careful.

Twp. School Costs Cut Half-Million

Elimination of some athletic facilities and unexpected low bids have cut by a half-million dollars the expected total cost of three schools soon to be erected in Bristol Township. Dr. Guy F. Eberhart, superintendent, said today.

The township school authority on July 21 is expected to award contracts to build the J. Robert Oppenheimer Senior High School and two elementary schools, and open bids for a bond issue of about $4,800,000. Previously it was estimated that the building program would require $5,333,000.

The authority voted to reduce the athletic facilities of the high school last night at a meeting with the school board. Authority Chairman James J. A. Gallagher presided.

Construction Costs Cut

A total of $86,400 was cut from the high school general construction bid of $1,849,000 by eliminating a football field, running track and curb, tennis courts and fence and an outdoor basketball court.

The authority members made the decision after conferring with

Another Hot Day, But Cool Air Coming

It will be hot and sticky again today, tonight and tomorrow but the weatherman sees a break in the heat by late tomorrow night. Temperatures will stay in the high 80's today with the humidity close behind. The overnight low will be 70.

Tomorrow's high will be in the 80's again but a cool air mass is expected to reach Lower Bucks late tomorrow and bring a drop in the temperature and a break in the humidity.

Yesterday's high mark was 87 at 5 p.m. with this morning's low 76 at 6 a.m.

Probers Warn Tycoon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House influence investigators excused Bernard Goldfine, millionaire friend of Sherman Adams, from testifying today after his lawyers pleaded he was suffering "physical and mental exhaustion."

At the same time they warned Goldfine's attorneys that the one-day delay in his testimony was not to be used by the Boston textile tycoon for "propagandizing the American people" through press conferences and broadcasts.

Roger Robb and two other Goldfine lawyers appeared at the brief hearing, leaving Goldfine behind at his hotel.

Robb said that the fuss over the microphone found next to Goldfine's hotel headquarters and the alleged burglary of his secretary's room "left Mr. Goldfine in a state of physical and mental exhaustion."

He said he had "every expectation" Goldfine could show up Wednesday but would not promise "categorically."

Harris Delivers Lecture

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) granted the request after delivering a stern lecture to Robb on what he pictured as publicity excesses and a lack of cooperation on the part of his client.

"I can see that unless there is a change of attitude there is going to be a clash," Harris said. "The committee will be prepared to meet it."

Harris reminded Robb that in discussing the requested delay with him last night he had served notice that if the postponement was to be used "for propagandizing the American people with press conferences and radio and television appearances it would not be granted."

He noted acidly that he understood that Goldfine, despite his protestations, was not going to appear. (Continued on Page 3 Col. 3)

Nervous At Wedding—And He Should Be

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — County Clerk Mel Faulk was dubious but accepted a marriage certificate that the Rev. J. C. Brian brought in Monday.

The Rev. Mr. Brian told Faulk he was ordained by a Baptist church and he married Forest Pinkerton, 19, and Betty Ann George, 18, Saturday.

"I was as nervous as they were because it was my first wedding," the Rev. Mr. Brian said.

The Rev. Mr. Brian is 16.

Baron I. Shacklette, chief investigator for the House Influence Investigating Committee, talks with reporters shortly before he was fired from his job. Shacklette was caught with a hidden microphone early yesterday eavesdropping on the hotel room of Bernard Goldfine's new press agent. LPRA Sets Confab On Permanent Fees

More than 100 Levittown organizations are expected to be represented tonight when the Levittown Public

Recreation Association discusses possible permanent fees and financial support for the Levittown Community Hall.

The session is listed for 8 o'clock at the main auditorium of the hall in the Levittown Shopping Center.

There has been no charge so far for use of the facilities of the building. The LPRA said a fee is necessary for continuance of building operations.

The Levittown Community Hall was the administration center for the Levitt firm before the company moved to New Jersey.

Richard Geruso, executive director of the LPRA, said it is important the LPRA and the Levittown organizations share in the decisions on operation of the building, for mutual satisfaction of the two groups.

"The sooner this problem is settled, the sooner we will be able to plan our 1958 calendar of regular meetings and special events," Geruso said.

Cuban Rebels To Hold GI's

HAVANA (UPI)—New Cuban rebel demands apparently snagged the release of 30 American servicemen today but the Castro forces indicated they would free the last four kidnapped civilians before tonight.

There was no indication whether the rebel demands included some assurances against renewed Cuban government warfare in mountainous Oriente Province or some sort of U.S. "recognition" of the Fidel Castro movement.

But apparently the rebels wanted some "high level negotiator" to talk with them before the Marines and sailors won their freedom. Earlier, the rebels had asked unsuccessfully to dicker personally with U.S. Ambassador Earl Smith.

Three more American civilians were flown out of the rebel mountain stronghold in Oriente Province Monday, bringing to 16 the total freed.

They said the last four civilians, three Americans and one Canadian, probably would be freed today while the 30 U.S. Marines and sailors probably would be freed "in the next two or three days."

Ike, Dulles Mend Fences In Canada

OTTAWA, Ont. (UPI) — President Eisenhower came here today for a three-day visit and round of fence-mending talks with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

The President's plane, Columbine III, touched down at nearby Uplands Airport at 10:55 a. m. e.d.t. Governor-General Vincent Massey, Diefenbaker and other government and military officials greeted the President.

Eisenhower was accompanied by his wife and Secretary of State and Mrs. John Foster Dulles.

A large crowd of spectators waving flags of both countries stood underneath overcast skies to greet the visiting President.

Eisenhower, making his first visit to Canada since 1953, inspected the guard of honor after the band had played the American national anthem.

The two heads of state open their talks today against a background of the most elaborate documentary preparations ever made in this capital for a visiting head of state.

The visit was being made for discussion primarily of economic differences with Canada that have developed in the past year or so. However Dulles said world problems as they affect the two countries jointly also would be brought up.

The main economic differences include U. S. disposal of surplus wheat overseas for foreign currencies, pressures within the United States to increase tariffs on lead and zinc and restrict their imports, and joint water resources in the northwest United States and southwest Canada.

Eisenhower doesn't have specific cures for any of these problems. But he hopes better relations between the two countries will result from the talks anyway.

Cold-Stricken Queen Returning To London

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth II was confined to her coach aboard a special train taking her back to London today because of a severe cold, sinus trouble and fever.

The queen was reported to have a temperature of 100.

Sources close to the queen, who was on a visit to northeast England and Scotland, said her voice was affected when she tried to speak this morning.

Cowboy Ropes Girl, Money; Plot Thickens

MRS. BARBARA FOX DOUBLEDAY

RAYMOND LEWIS HEADSPETH

MIAMI (UPI) — Who owned the $203,000 in the suitcase when a dude ranch cowboy left a minister's wife in the lurch at an Arizona motel? A federal court will decide.

A U.S. commissioner Monday set bonds totaling $45,000 on three charges against the cowboy, Raymond Lewis Headspeth, 37.

The minister's wife, Mrs. Barbara Fox Doubleday, 33, of Kirkwood, Mo., will have to wait to regain what is left of her inheritance—some $184,000. It is locked up in a bank safety deposit vault here as evidence.

Mrs. Doubleday faced her former lover at the hearing and calmly testified she thought him "ungrateful" for running off with "her money." But on cross examination she admitted turning the cash over to the cowboy when they decided to run off to Mexico and get married. She had just obtained a "quickie" divorce from her husband, the Rev. James A. Doubleday, rector at Grace Episcopal Church, Kirkwood.

"Ray and I were going to get married in Mexico," she said. "I (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Government Begins Racket Crackdown With Two Arrests

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government Monday night launched a major crackdown on the underworld by arresting reputed racketeer Vito Genovese for violating the federal narcotics laws.

Also seized was Vincent (Chin) Gigante, 30, a former heavyweight boxer who was acquitted in May of the attempted assassination of gambler Frank Costello.

Other arrests were imminent, the government said.

Genovese, 61, a longtime underworld figure and reputed head of the U.S. Mafia, the secret Sicilian society, and Gigante, a small-time hoodlum, were seized on the basis of a sealed indictment handed up Monday by a federal grand jury. The identities of several other leading underworld figures

Jobless Mark Set In June

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment in June shot up to 5,437,000—a 17-year record high—the government reported today.

It said most of this rise was due to the nearly two million students and new graduates who entered the labor market last month.

The Commerce and Labor departments said the number of jobless rose by 533,000 from the May figure of 4,904,000. This was about the normal increase for this month in the postwar period.

But the total unemployment figure reached the highest point since the government counted 5,620,000 out of work in August, 1941. It was the highest figure ever for any June since 1941 when the total was 6,190,000 jobless.

The number of job-holders climbed by 920,000 to 64,981,000 from May to June. Most of the new jobs opened up on farms.

The number of workers on factory payrolls increased more than usual for the second consecutive month, rising by 440,000 to 50,400,000 in June.

This was good news to economists since the manufacturing industries have been hard-hit by the recession and employment in that category had declined steadily for almost 18 months.

Although it was the highest total unemployment figure since the recession began, government economists said the jobless climb was smaller on a percentage basis than in most other years.

As a result, a seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment dropped from 7.2 per cent in May to 6.8 per cent of the labor force in June.

"The fact that it has edged down for two months in a row indicates that the uptrend in unemployment may be halted after allowance for seasonal changes," the report said.

Screams Save Family From Car Injuries

Warning screams of "watch out" saved the lives of a Levittown child, her mother, and her grandmother, yesterday afternoon when their car rolled down a hill of a Trenton parking lot and barely missed them.

Mrs. Robert D. McWhirter, 85 Thornapple Lane, Thornridge, stopped her car in the lot of Lit Brothers, Trenton.

"Our investigation discloses that which this entire conspiracy revolved and Gigante was one of his proteges and a rising star," Williams said.

Williams referred to the unveiling last month of a vast narcotics network with the arrest of 15 men and 3 women. This ring, Williams said, was responsible for the smuggling of hundreds of pounds of narcotics into the United States annually.

Federal agents seized Genovese at his home in Atlantic Highlands, N. J. Gigante was arrested two hours earlier in a Greenwich Village "social club."

Williams hailed the crackdown as a move which "could easily drive the Mafia out of the narcotics business."

A delegate to last November's gangland convention at Apalachin, N. Y., Genovese is reported to be the head of gambling, vice and waterfront rackets, in addition to his alleged narcotics operations.

Another passenger, David Bunkley, 18, was not detained.

State Police said their auto collided with one operated by Robert Buck, 19, Holcomb Rd., Huntingdon Valley, Pa., who was not injured.

Police said Buck told them he dozed at the wheel and his vehicle drifted across the highway into the path of the other oncoming auto.

told him the money would be ours when we got married."

But the wiry, blue-eyed cowpuncher told FBI agents who arrested him in Miami June 26 that Mrs. Doubleday had given him the money.

The trim brunette, mother of two, told how she met Headspeth at the Lazy A dude ranch near Reno where she went to seek a divorce. A romance soon blossomed.

It was "his idea," Mrs. Doubleday said, to go to Mexico and for such a trip he said they would need cash. She converted $206,000 worth of inherited securities and off they went in a new car, the money in a suitcase in the trunk, visiting motels and sightseeing spots in Reno, Denver, New Orleans, Phoenix and Tucson.

The trail and the romance ended at Tucson. Headspeth, she reported, went out to buy some watermelon to top off dinner and failed to return. He wired her later where she could pick up the car and $2,000 he had left in it at Phoenix.

Crime Director Says:

Capone Hoodlums Infiltrate Unions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Virgil Peterson, director of the Chicago Crime Commission, told the Senate Rackets Committee today that Capone gang hoodlums have infiltrated "innumerable" unions in the Chicago area.

Peterson specifically mentioned Local 593 of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union, one of the main groups now being investigated by the committee.

Gangsters also have had a hand in the operation of the taxi driver, juke box and electric workers union, he testified.

Peteron and Detective L. George Butler of the Dallas, Texas, police department were the first witnesses as the committee opened a new hearing on mobster influence in labor - management relations in the restaurant business in Chicago.

Other named witnesses included four restaurant operators, a former waitress and a former union official. Some of the best-known names of the Chicago underworld will be called to testify later.

The Chicago Restaurant Association which is famed for fine food ciation was expected to figure prominently in the hearings.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), said in an opening statement the committee would inquire into these four areas:

"Whether groups of employers banded together for the purposes of destroying legitimate unionization;

"Whether collusive deals were made between dishonest management and dishonest union officials;

"Whether gangsters or hoodlums were employed by an association of employers to keep out unionization or to handle their labor relations;

"Whether certain union officials have been or are presently in the control of the criminal syndicate in Chicago."

Twp. Appointments Raise Total To 7 For District Rise

Two new school directors were appointed last night by the Middletown Township School Board, whose membership is expanding to seven to govern a third class district.

They are Irving M. Susskind, 37 Queensbridge Road, and Charles M. Thompson, 12 Dolphin Road, both of Levittown.

Car Makers Seek Boost

DETROIT (UPI)—Auto industry representatives said today they hoped a new law requiring factory suggested price labeling of new cars might give sales a shot in the arm by boosting buyer confidence.

President Eisenhower signed the bill into law Monday.

It requires auto makers to label new cars with their suggested retail price, including cost of accessories and transportation.

Spokesmen for the auto industry's "big three" were unanimously in favor of it. They said their companies had favored the bill even before it became law.

The law is aimed at auto price "padding"—hiking the manufacturer's suggested list price to mislead the purchaser into believing he received an exceptionally large discount or used-car trade-in allowance.

It provides a $1,000 fine for failure to label new cars properly or for tampering with labels once they were applied.

Personal Stake

Campaign Chairman George G. Gray this morning emphasized that every working man and woman of Bucks County has a personal stake in the success of the industrialization campaign.

"Unemployment is the most critical problem in Bucks County today," he said, "and the way to combat it is to bring additional industries, with additional jobs. Many persons who now commute to Philadelphia or New Jersey to work would work closer to home, if they had the opportunity.

"Support of the Development Corporation by those now employed," he said, "is an investment in employment insurance. It will assure the continued prosperity of the company you work for and the addition of new firms with new opportunities."

Waterson Cleared Of Tow-Monopoly Charges

Board Action Follows Probe By Struwe

By JACK SCULLIN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

The Lower Makefield Township Board of Supervisors last night announced it could find no "justifiable grounds" for the charges made either against Chief of Police Robert W. Waterson or the practices being followed in the township in the selection of wrecking towing services.

The board pointed out, in a prepared statement, that it has reviewed a report of William H. Struwe, township manager, on his investigation of the handling of wrecking towing services.

Several weeks ago a group of garage owners had charged that a Morrisville garage was a "favorite" of police when it was necessary for a wrecking service.

"Nothing could be found to substantiate the charges that one wrecking concern was being used exclusively in Lower Makefield," the report said.

Police Under Orders

"The investigation revealed that the police are under specific orders, with regard to the selection of wrecker services, to first inquire from the automobile owner his desire as to which wrecker he wishes to have remove his car," the statement said.

"The facts indicate that has been the procedure. Over a period of more than two years, there have been 14 different wrecking services that have towed cars away from accidents in Lower Makefield.

"With regard to Mr. Boyd Miller's complaint of his alleged treatment by Chief Waterson in 1955, there are many discrepancies and contradictions in Mr. Miller's verbal report at the supervisor's meeting on June 2 and his notarized statement filed with Mr. Struwe subsequent to that meeting.

"In a thorough review of the case with Chief Waterson, he denies any alleged abuse or improper action in regard to Mr. Miller. The fact that Mr. Miller waited for over two years before he saw fit to make any complaint with regard to his alleged improper treatment by the police chief when he had many means at his disposal to air his charges, does not, in the opinion of the board, make his case very convincing.

Compliments On File

"Many letters on file and many verbal compliments from individuals who have had occasion to deal with the police in connection with accident investigations in Lower Makefield indicate that the chief and his force have always conducted themselves in such a manner as to be above reproach.

"The board would like to extend its thanks to all who have contributed in any way to this investigation, and to indicate its confidence in Chief Waterson's conduct of the police force."

In making his investigation into the charges, Struwe followed this method of investigation: To determine what procedure the police department has followed with reference to having wrecks removed from the scene of an accident; to review the procedure in the light of actual recent situations cited at the meeting of June 2; to review all accident reports for 1956, 1957 and 1958, with the chief of police and officers at the scene; to write to each wrecking company present at the meeting of June 2 and request that they specify incidents where the police have mistreated them; to determine what other governmental organizations do in similar situations; and to write to several of the persons involved in accidents and request them to state whether the police have mistreated them or have used pressure to have them use one particular wrecking concern.

Procedure Thorough
"The board feels that this procedure was thorough and developed the actual conditions as they exist."

Claude Johnson, president of the board, said that police have been instructed to investigate to see what action can be taken on ambulance chasing. Supervisor Peter F. Campbell, Jr. said anyone caught endangering the lives of residents in chasing wrecks will be prosecuted.

Johnson instructed Joseph McCarthy, Yardley garage owner, to render a bill for services at a wreck in which he was directed to appear by the dispatcher. He said a wrecking concern has a legitimate claim when ordered to the scene of an accident.
